Welcome from the local organisers

Dear participants

We are very excited to welcome you to the fifth European Conference on Politics and Gender! Gender and Politics is a crucial area of research in Lausanne, involving activities at the Center for Gender studies (CEG) and at the Institute for Political, Historical and International Studies (IEPHI) in the Faculty of Social and Political Science, as well as in the context of the interdisciplinary Platform for Gender Studies (PlaGe) that spans the whole university.

We are therefore proud to host such a large and diverse number of scholars, Panels, and Papers that represent the very best work in the field of gender and politics in Europe today.

We will do our best to ensure a memorable and enriching conference, and we hope you enjoy the stimulating discussions, the friendly networking opportunities, the peaceful campus setting (and its sheep) and the very Swiss fondue dinner.

We would like to thank the Convenors and our local team for their hard work. We wish you a thought-provoking and enjoyable conference and a great stay in the picturesque city of Lausanne.

Martina Avanza
Sébastien Chauvin
Rahel Kunz
Eléonore Lépinard
Sandy Fernandez
Muriel Bruttin

Martina Avanza is Senior Lecturer in political sociology at the Institute of Political, Historical and International Studies of the University of Lausanne, where she heads the Research Centre on Political Action (CRAPUL). Her research interests include: identity politics and political activism (parties, unions, social movements) especially conservative activism in a gendered perspective. Her current research is about the pro-life movement in Italy. She specialises in ethnographic methods and heads an international network on political ethnography funded by the French Association for Political Science (EthnoPol). She has published in Revue Française de Science Politique, Travail, Genre et Sociétés, Genèses, Annales, Critique Internationale, and Politics and Gender (forthcoming, December 2017).

Sébastien Chauvin is Associate Professor of Gender Studies at the University of Lausanne. He previously taught at the University of Amsterdam, the University of Chicago and the Université Paris 1-Panthéon Sorbonne. His work uses field methods, historical sociology and social theory to explore arenas where different axes of social inequality are enacted, reproduced and contested. His past research has dealt with immigration, citizenship, gender, sexuality, law, and labour in France and the United States.

He is the author of Introduction aux études sur le genre (De Boeck, 2012, with Laure Bereni, Alex Jaunait and Anne Revillard) and Sociologie de l'homosexualité (La Découverte, 2013, with Arnaud Lerch). His scholarship on undocumented migration and precarious work was published in Les agences de la précarité: journaliers à Chicago (Le Seuil, 2010) and, with Pierre Barron, Anne Bory, Nicolas Jounin and Lucie Tourette,

On bosse ici, on reste ici! La grève des sans papiers (La Découverte, 2011), as well as numerous articles. His ongoing projects probe the evolving ontologies of gender, ethnicity and kinship in the early 21st century, and explore the intersections of race, nationalism, sexuality and citizenship in the Netherlands, France and the US.

Rahel Kunz is a senior lecturer at the Institute for Political, Historical and International Studies at the University of Lausanne. Her research interests are feminist international political economy, gender issues in migration and development, gender and security sector reform, and feminist poststructuralist and postcolonial thought. She has published in International Political Sociology, Journal of European Integration, Migration Studies, Review of International Political Economy and Third World Quarterly. She is the author of The Political Economy of Global Remittances: Gender, Governmentality and Neoliberalism (Routledge 2011).

Eléonore Lépinard is Associate Professor in gender studies at the Institute of Social Sciences. Her main areas of research are in the fields of feminist movements and theory, gender and law, intersectionality and gender and political representation. She was the recipient in 2012 of the best Paper award from APSA's women and politics section, as well as of the Frank L. Wilson best Paper award of APSA's French politics group. In recent years she has published articles in Politics, Politics, Groups & Identity, Gender & Society, and Politics & Gender. She is currently co-editing with Ruth Rubio-Marin a comparative volume on gender quotas in Europe, forthcoming in 2018.

Sandy Fernandez is a Master student in Political Science at the University of Lausanne with a special emphasis on International Relations. During her Bachelor degree in Social Sciences, she developed an academic interest in gender studies, memory studies, and the visual in political science. Her present research focuses on contemporary collective memory of the civil war and resistances in Spain (Ferrol, Galicia). She's currently doing an ethnographic fieldwork and uses images and filming for her master dissertation.

Muriel Bruttin is currently doing a masters in social science at the University of Lausanne. She received her BA in political science, with a minor in Asian Studies, from Vassar College.

Welcome from the academic convenors

Dear friends and colleagues

Welcome to the fifth ECPG! We are thrilled to be in Lausanne where we have an exciting range of Panels and Papers from scholars around the world.

We were overwhelmed by the quality and quantity of Papers which reflects our growing community. We recognise how expensive international conferences can be, and we sought to limit costs to ensure that as many people as possible are able to attend.

Survey results from our 2015 conference in Uppsala revealed that you want a more diverse programme, so this year's topics, Roundtable and Keynote speakers reflect that desire. We've also adopted a more inclusive format for this year's conference dinner: fondue for all!

Given the uncertain political climate in Turkey, we wanted to show support for Turkish colleagues who play such an important role in our community. We established six scholarships to cover the costs of attending ECPG. Following a competitive process, three scholarships were awarded to faculty, and three to graduate students.

Finally, our thanks to the Section Chairs for putting together such stimulating Panels; to Liza Mügge and Rahel Kunz for organising the Roundtable; to the ECPR's Becky Plant; and of course to the team in Lausanne for their hard work in hosting this important conference.

Isabelle Engeli
University of Bath

Elizabeth Evans
Goldsmiths,
University of London

Isabelle Engeli is a Reader in Comparative Politics and Policy at the University of Bath. Her research specialises in comparative policy agendas, the comparative turn in political science research, and the politics of gendering policy attention and action.

She was co-recipient in 2012 of the Best Comparative Policy Paper Award from APSA Public Policy Section, and won the 2011 Carrie Chapman Catt Prize.

Her work has appeared in European Journal of Political Research, Regulation & Governance, West European Politics, and Journal of European Public Policy.

She is the co-editor of Comparative Policy Studies (2014; Palgrave), the co-Lead Editor of Political Studies Review and the Grand Holder Scientific Representative of the COST ACTION Professionalisation and Social Impact of European Political Science.

Elizabeth Evans is a Senior Lecturer at Goldsmiths, University of London, where she teaches courses on feminist politics and identity politics.

Her research interests include comparative gender and political representation, political parties, and elections. She is particularly interested in the possibilities of contentious politics for advancing feminist goals.

Her second book, The Politics of Third Wave Feminisms: Neoliberalism, Intersectionality and the State in Britain and the US, was published by Palgrave.

University of Lausanne

The University of Lausanne is a higher teaching and research institution composed of seven faculties where approximately 14,300 students and 3,000 researchers work and study

UNIL is focused on several academic disciplines, especially Medicine, Life Sciences, Geosciences, Environment, Business, Humanities and Social Sciences. An emphasis is placed on an interdisciplinary approach, with close cooperation between students, teaching staff, and professors. See www.unil.ch

Centre for Gender Studies

In 2001, researchers from the University created LIEGE, western Switzerland's first scientific network on gender studies, particularly active in supporting young researchers integrate a gender perspective into their scientific projects. It also created a space for collective reflection, inter-university and interdisciplinary work, and a connection with civil society. Over the years, the LIEGE has contributed to the recognition of gender studies and the progress of gender equality in universities.

The creation of the Centre for Gender Studies (CEG) in February 2008 gives recognition to the work done by the LIEGE. It also promotes the integration of UNIL researchers in national and international networks. As a research unit housed by the Institute of Social Sciences (ISS), the CEG aims to develop research on gender in social sciences, to nurture interdisciplinary dialogue in Gender Studies through the coordination of research activities, and to provide scientific guidance to the students who wish to integrate gender studies in their academic curriculum and/or adopt a gender perspective in their research.

Beyond UNIL, the CEG is involved in the development of gender studies at national and international levels. It organised the 6th International Congress of Francophone feminist research in 2012. It also handles the production and dissemination of the French version of the platform Switzerland Gender Campus.

Institute for Political, Historical and International Studies

Born in 2015 from the merger of the Institute for Economic and Social History (IHES) and the Institute for Political and International Studies (IEPI), the IEPHI is a research and teaching institute whose aim is to produce and transmit knowledge about contemporary political issues. It is linked to the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences.

The institute presents an interdisciplinary profile which distinguishes it from scientific institutions and other departments of political science stricto sensu, mainly because of the importance of the historical approach.

The research activities carried out at the Institute are structured around several specialised units:

CWP Center Walras Pareto on history of political ideas and institutions

CRAPUL Research Center on Political Action

CRHIM Research Center on international history and political studies on globalisation

LAGAPE Laboratory on Analysis of Governance and Public Policy in Europe

The newly founded GREC Research Group on Elections and Political Citizenship

OBELIS Swiss Elite Observatory

OVPR Research Observatory on Regional Politics

The city of Lausanne

Switzerland's fourth-largest city enjoys a picturesque setting on the shore of Lake Geneva, facing the Savoy Alps across the water

Capital of the canton of Vaud, Lausanne is built on three hills, and surrounded by vineyard-covered slopes. Official city of the Olympic Games, it is a popular tourist destination that's also home to many multinational companies.

Tourist highlights include the Olympic Museum, the Musée de l'Elysée and the Collection de l'Art Brut.

Explore the alleys of city's old town, with its cafés and boutiques, and admire Lausanne cathedral, regarded as Switzerland's most impressive piece of early Gothic architecture.

The best shopping streets are those near the cathedral as well as around the pretty waterfront area of Ouchy.

Standing Group

Created in 1985, the Gender and Politics Group has over 750 members from all over the world

ecpr

Standing Group
on Gender and Politics

The Group is a broad-based network of people interested in issues relating to the study of gender and sexuality in politics and world politics.

It encourages workshops, Panels and research groups with an emphasis on gender and seeks to increase the profile of women in political science.

Over the past twenty years, research conducted in this field has expanded significantly and the number of gender and politics scholars participating in the ECPR Joint Sessions and General Conferences has increased exponentially.

In 2007, the Group arranged a conference dedicated to this exciting field of research. The first-ever European Conference on Politics and Gender (ECPG) was held in Belfast from 13 – 15 January 2009, and was an enormous success: more than 300 scholars converged for three days of Panels, plenaries and socialising.

The aim at that time was to turn the new conference into a biennial international conference on gender and politics, and the Group's second conference was held in Budapest, 13 – 15 January 2011, with an even bigger number of participants in attendance.

The third ECPG Conference took place at the University Pompeu Fabra Barcelona, 21 – 23 March 2013. A tremendous success, the conference featured 100 Panels with more than 500 Papers.

In 2013, the Standing Group created a Geneva-based charity to manage the ECPG conferences.

Local Panels

Switzerland has long been a case study for the comparison of political systems. Its federal structure and mix of progressive and conservative attitudes towards gender features make it particularly interesting for gender and politics scholars

These three Panels were initiated by junior scholars from Swiss universities.

They examine a wide array of gender-policy topics in and from Switzerland, including: the construction of the family in law, histories of the penalisation of rape, domestic violence and homophobia, gender in the Swiss asylum system, parental leave policies, and gender equality in the workplace.

The Panels make up Conference Section 11, chaired by ECPG Academic Convenors Isabelle Engeli and Elizabeth Evans.

Gender diversity survey

ECPR is gathering sex-segregated data for event attendance, for submission and publication in ECPR journals and books, and for involvement in our government and leadership.

Would you take a moment to update your MyECPR profile to include your gender? Just to go www.ecpr.eu and click Login in the top right-hand corner. Then choose My Profile from the MyECPR drop-down menu. Thank you!

MyECPR housekeeping: help us help you!

Please keep your institution and email address up to date. That way, we don't waste members' money trying to contact dormant accounts, and you won't miss out on early-bird bargains. Clean data also means our communications can be streamlined and better targeted to your needs. Did you know that you can use the Research Interests field under My Profile to let us know your particular areas of study? This data helps us improve the accuracy and relevance of keyword indexes.

Might you have more than one historical MyECPR account associated with an email address you no longer use? (Don't be shy; it's quite common.) Contact support@ecpr.eu to let us know, and we can merge the data in this account with your live one, no problem.

Practical information

Travel information

Getting to the University from the main train station is best done by metro, as the campus lies a little outside the city. Journey time is around 20 minutes.

From the main station entrance (north side, near platform 1), cross the street to Lausanne-Gare. Take the M2 metro line for one stop towards Croisettes, and get out at Lausanne-Flon. Take the stairs or elevator up one floor, and switch to the M1 metro line, travelling towards Renens-Gare.

To reach the Anthropole building, travel six stops to Unil-Dorigny. For the Géopolis building, travel seven stops to Unil-Mouline.

Most hotels provide their customers with free day cards for public transport. Ask your hotel's front desk if they offer this service.

More information at www.t-l.ch/en

Lunches

For lunch on Friday, you will receive a coupon for use at the cafeterias in Unithèque, Géopolis or Anthropole. Unithèque and Géopolis cafeterias serve a large selection of hot meals, while the cafeteria in Anthropole has mostly sandwiches. It is a short walk through campus to get from the conference buildings to Unithèque.

For lunch on Saturday, you will be given a packed lunch at registration.

Cashpoints

Find an ATM on the second floor of Anthropole, near the middle of the building.

Water bottles

To reduce plastic wastage, all participants will receive a reusable squeeze drinks bottle.

Bars & cafés

The Great Escape

Rue Madeleine 18, 1003

Wide selection of tap beers and spirits; great burger menu. Beautiful terrace with a view. Walk up from Place de la Riponne by the Escaliers de l'Université and turn right.

L'Étoile blanche

Avenue du Tribunal Fédéral, 1005

Relaxed, friendly city centre bar-restaurant. The dining area resembles the living room of a family home; the bar below has standing room only during busy hours. Open for lunch, dinner, snacks at the counter, brunch, takeaways or just for a drink.

Ta Cave

Rue du Simplon 35, 1006

Open from 4pm for apéro hour, the bar offers wines by the glass at reasonable prices, plus a simple menu of cheese and charcuterie platters.

Restaurants

Brasserie de Montbenon

Allée Ernest-Ansermet 3, 1003

High quality, traditional cooking in an early twentieth century building with a spectacular eight-metre high domed dining room, and breathtaking views of lake Geneva. The BM celebrates the seasonal gastronomy of the Canton de Vaud.

Caffè Bellini

Rue de la Barre 5, 1003

Modern Italian bistro with eclectic decor and leafy outdoor terrace. Often busy.

Eat me

Rue Pépinet 3, 1003

Cocktail bar with tapas menu that takes inspiration from all over the world. Plates are small, so you need multiples to make a decent-sized dinner. Not cheap, but high quality.

Plenary lecture and reception

The Good Life and the Bad: Changing Landscapes of Gender Inequality

The Plenary Lecture is sponsored by Rowman & Littlefield's International Feminist Institutional Perspective Series, in conjunction with FIIN

We need to assess the good, the bad and the ugly in our everyday and institutional political life as never before. As we face new challenges in uncertain times, we need solidarity among ourselves as never before.

Speaker Shirin M. Rai
Date Thursday 8 June
Time 17:45 – 18:45
Venue Amphitheatre 1031
Reception follows lecture
Time 18:45 – 20:00
Venue Unithèque

And yet, what divides us continues to dog our footsteps, even as we attempt to reach across national and political boundaries to generate a different politics. In her lecture, Shirin reflects on these challenges and argues that we, as feminist intellectuals and educators, can participate in developing new, self-aware and much needed solidarities – through reflecting on our curricula, our pedagogy, our writing and the spaces we occupy to bridge the private and public, the individual and the collective, as well as challenge the dichotomies of knowledge and power.

Shirin Rai is Professor of Politics and International Studies at the University of Warwick. She is a founder member of the South Asia Research Network on Gender, Law and Governance. She has published two edited collections exploring how performance in and of institutional and informal politics are co-constitutive.

Fondue dinner

Sponsored by the Routledge Gender and Politics book series

Cheese fondue is a hot dish consisting of one or more Swiss cheeses, such as Gruyère or Vacherin Fribourgeois, heated over a fondue burner in the centre of the table. Along with raclette, it is one of Switzerland's national dishes. Diners spear pieces of bread or potato on the end of extralong forks, then soak them in the melted cheese before eating.

Fondue is a heavy meal and we recommend you drink either a hot beverage or wine with it. Avoid cold beverages because they tend to solidify the cheese in the stomach too quickly and can make you feel unwell.

Kindly note that Géopolis does not take credit or debit cards. You get one glass of white wine with your meal, but if you would like to buy more, please bring cash with you.

This dinner is available only to participants who registered by the mid-February deadline.

You will be given a voucher upon registration which you must present in the cafeteria.

Plenary Roundtable

*Gender at the Border:
the Refugee Crisis in Europe*

Sponsored by the journal
Politics, Groups and Identities

The 'refugee' crisis in Europe fuels an emotional public and political debate. Recent events, such as the Cologne attacks, the drowning of the three-year-old Syrian boy in Turkey, and terrorist attacks in European cities trigger extremism, but they also prompt citizens to organise in solidarity.

This Roundtable sheds light on the intersectional mechanisms that influence political responses to the crisis and reflects on their consequences. Spanning international politics and gender- and queer studies, speakers ask:

How are refugees selected at the border?

What ethical, methodological and theoretical challenges do gender and sexuality scholars face in research on refugees?

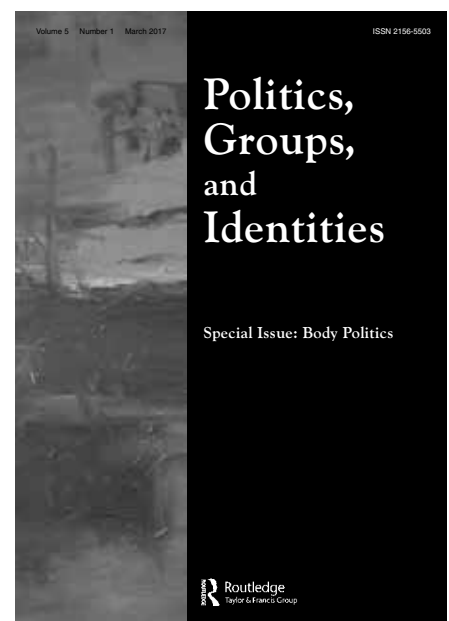

Should scholars take a proactive role in public debate and if so, how?

ECPG Gender and Politics Career Achievement Award

Pioneering feminist Hege Skjeie, the first woman in Norway to be appointed full Professor of Political Science, gets our 2017 award

Hege's eminent career demonstrates not just a commitment to scholarly advancement but also to public engagement. Her innovative research on ethnicity, diversity and intersectionality, human rights law and policy, and political representation and elite politics, has resulted in major advances for the theoretical thinking of European gender and politics research.

One of Hege's major contributions is her research on the intersections of gender, ethnicity and religion in Nordic and European institutions, for example in the path-breaking project on institutionalising intersectionality and the changing nature of European Equality Regimes (see the book Institutionalizing Intersectionality, 2012).

Another major contribution is her research on human rights law and policy. Analysing the role of individual human rights, including religious rights, she coined the provocative concept likestillingens vikeplikt, referring to the fact that women's equal rights must often make way for other more important concerns, published first in the Power and Democracy Commissions book series (Skjeie and Teigen 2003).

Real-world influence

The results of Hege's empirical work have had a profound influence on Norwegian policy and public debates on (gender) equality and democracy.

As the powerful Chair of the Norwegian government's Equality Commission, the Skjeie-commission (2010–2012), and chief author of its official equality reports, Hege criticised the dominant mainstreaming policy as failing to solve problems related to gender division and stereotyping in education and the labour market.

Under Hege's direction, the equality reports presented a multidimensional, holistic approach to gender equality, which is now generally accepted.

Intersectional studies in Norway

In recent years Hege has managed several Research Council-funded projects on intersectional studies:

PLUREQ Gender equality, cultural diversity, religious pluralism: State policies and feminist interventions;

DEMROK Democracy, freedom of religion and women's human rights;

MULTIDIM Multidimensional equality: Legislative reforms and judicial practices (with Mari Teigen).

Hege was a member of Norway's Standing Committee on Outside Political Appointments (2009–2017); of the Centennial for women's vote committee (2009–2013); and of the Equality Tribunal (2006–2010) monitoring all non-discrimination and equality legislation.

She has written commentaries for the leading Norwegian newspaper Dagens Næringsliv, sharing a weekly column with the Prime Minister, the leader of the opposition and two economics professors, dealing with human rights, integration, and equality policy issues.

Hege was a very popular choice for this award, and the ECPG Standing Group on Gender & Politics considers itself very fortunate to have such a pioneering scholar among its number. The awarding committee of David Patternotte, Emanuela Lombardo and Elizabeth Evans would like to congratulate Hege once again for all her outstanding achievements!

The Joni Lovenduski PhD Prize in Gender and Politics

Awarded to Hila Amit for her highly original dissertation A Queer Way Out: Israeli Emigration and Unheroic Resistance to Zionism

Hila Amit (1985, Tel-Aviv) is a freelance researcher, Hebrew teacher and author. She holds a PhD in Gender Studies from SOAS, University of London, and a Master's in Gender Studies from the University of Tel-Aviv. Hila also has a BA in creative writing, and recently published her first short story collection, Moving On from Bliss (Tel-Aviv: Am Oved, 2016).

Prior to her academic career, Hila worked for Physicians for Human Rights in Israel/Palestine, where she also took part in several education programmes. In addition to her interest in the Israel-Palestine conflict and the effects of Zionist Ideology on Israel's gender regime, Hila is committed to the critical approach offered by queer theories on questions of nation, gender and sexuality.

In her own words...

'My dissertation explores the activities of (as well as the discourse used by) queer Israeli emigrants, before, during, and after departure. At the juncture of sexuality, politics and national belonging, my research investigates the connections between the Israeli collective and its outcasts, and between social exclusion and departure. I formulate a framework through which emigration is read as a political activity.

The thesis' argument is that queer Israeli emigrants, in their decision to depart, undermine Zionist ideology, and change the obvious paths of resistance to Zionism. In stepping out of the territory of Israel, they avoid the Zionist demand to perform as strong, masculine Sabras. Likewise, left-wing resistance to the regime demands similar strength: to take part in violent demonstrations and risk physical injury or imprisonment.

Emigration is subversive in that it symbolises a refusal to answer Zionism in the currency of heroism and active resistance. I show how emigrants' decision to leave stems from acknowledgement of their own vulnerability; recognition that they can no longer tolerate the hardship of life offered to them in Israel. The very act of announcing their vulnerability weakens the system, which demands strength of the citizens of Israel, whether obedience to the regime or not. In their passivity and unheroic behaviour, emigrants threaten to undermine the entire Zionist project.

By announcing their vulnerability, by choosing not to be heroes – not to be there – queer emigrants are, in fact, resisting the Zionist project in its essence.'

Prize-giving ceremonies for both these awards take place at 17:00 on Thursday 8 June, Anthropole, Amphitheatre 1031

The UNIL Equal Opportunities Office was created in 2001 to promote gender equality at the university. Its missions are to promote equal gender representation at all levels, to encourage young women in academia, to promote work-life balance, and contribute to eliminating all kinds of gender discrimination.

The Equal Opportunities Office is the main body for the implementation of UNIL Action Plan for Gender Equality, in collaboration with the Rectorate, faculties, and administrative departments.

L'égalité.

une idée qu'on travaille.

plateforme interfacultaire en études genre et inégalités

The Interfaculty Platform for Gender Studies of UNIL, the PlaGe, is an interdisciplinary network. Its main objective is to understand gender in its global reality through the exchange of knowledge, analyzes and methods between the different disciplines represented at UNIL.

It encourages collaboration between members, the organization of scientific activities, and the dissemination and integration of Gender Studies within the different disciplines and faculties of the University of Lausanne. Any person studying or working at UNIL, whatever his status, may become a member.

reconnaissance

The Center for Gender Studies at the Université de Lausanne was officially founded in 2008. Gender studies have a long history in Lausanne, where they have been part of the social science curriculum for two decades. The foundation of the CEG marked a new impulse with a center fully dedicated to research and teaching - from undergraduate courses to doctoral supervision - within the University's Institute of Social Sciences.

Today scholars affiliated at the CEG work in fields such as sexualities, immigration, inequalities, public policies, corporeality, education, intersectionality, socio-legal studies, and social movements studies. The CEG works to promote gender studies in social sciences and beyond at Unil, thanks to collaborations with the multidisciplinary Plateforme en études genre (PlaGe). It is also a member of Gender Campus, a nation-wide platform for gender studies and gender equality policy, and of the Doctoral school in gender studies for francophone Switzerland.

Well known in the French speaking academic world as the host of the 2012 International francophone conference of feminist studies, the CEG is proud to host ECPG 2017 on the eve of its 10th anniversary.

Founded in 2015 by the merger of the Institute for Economic and Social History (IHES) and the Institute for Political and International Studies (IEPI), the IEPHI (Institute for Political, Historical and International Studies) is a research and teaching institute that aims at producing and transmitting knowledge about contemporary political issues. It is based at the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences. The IEPHI is characterized by its interdisciplinarity and its focus on historical perspectives.

*Let the People Rule?
Direct Democracy in the Twenty-First Century*

Saskia Ruth, Yanina Welp &
Laurence Whitehead (Eds)

The biggest current challenge to democratic legitimacy concerns the crisis of democratic representation. To tackle it, states include direct democratic instruments in their constitutions, so citizens can influence decision-making. But direct democracy's many manifestations remain understudied. Let the People Rule? analyses its consequences on constitutional reforms and independence, accountability, and political outcomes. The book's authors illustrate their theories using in-depth national case studies, and cross-national comparisons.

A Political Style of Thinking: Essays on Max Weber

Kari Palonen

Weber studies have transformed radically since the 1980s, and Palonen continues this revision by reading Weber as a thoroughly political thinker. This collection, containing essays from 1999 to 2014 and a new introduction, argues that Weber's key concept, chance, allows us to understand the actions of politicians and the presence of the political aspect in research. The first part deals with Weber's concept of politics and the politician, the second discusses his reinterpretations of key political concepts, and the third links his concept of 'objectivity' with the parliamentary political style.

*Globalisation of Nationalism: The Motive-Force behind
21st Century Politics*

Liah Greenfeld (Ed)

This volume tests the hypothesis that behind the hottest political issues since the Cold War lies globalisation of national consciousness. Contributing authors focus on the failure of democratisation in Russia, transformations of identity in Europe, Africa, the Americas, and South-East Asia, the rise of militant Islam, and the eruption of China onto the world stage. Collectively, these essays prove that nationalism remains the organising principle of politics inside nations as well as at transnational and international levels.

Cities and the European Union: Mechanisms and Modes of Europeanisation

Samuele Dossi

This volume examines EU policy instruments affecting the urban domain through the lens of Europeanisation. Rather than looking at instruments formally consecrated to cities, Dossi uses theoretical public policy analysis to explore the arenas and mechanisms that structure the encounter between the EU and urban governance. He analyses four 'modes' of Europeanisation, to grasp the essence of EU instruments and initiatives, finding that the Europeanisation of urban systems depends on strategic interaction, not on the legal 'tools' designated explicitly for cities.

From Participation to Deliberation: A Critical Genealogy of Deliberative Democracy

Antonio Floridia

In 2006, Barack Obama's statement that 'the framework of our constitution is designed to force us into a 'deliberative democracy' in which all citizens are required to test their ideas against an external reality, persuading others of their point of view, affirmed deliberative democracy's contemporary relevance. But where does the model come from? This book provides a complete history of deliberative democracy from the 1980s onwards. Floridia analyses its relationship with the earlier idea, and practices, of participatory democracy in the 1960s and 70s.

Eurobondage: The Political Costs of Monetary Union in Europe

Jonathon Moses

This book gauges the degree to which the monetary policies of Iceland, Latvia, Hungary and Ireland responded to the financial crisis. The author finds that these small states still enjoy monetary policy autonomy, which prioritised the needs of domestic constituents over those of international markets. Eurozone members, by contrast, prioritised the (long-term) needs of international lenders and European institutions, at the (short-term) expense of their own constituents. Eurobondage documents the substantial sacrifices that states have made in joining a suboptimum currency area.
