European Consortium for Political Research

The European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) is an independent, scholarly association, established in 1970. It supports and encourages the training, research and cross-national co-operation of political scientists throughout Europe and beyond. The ECPR currently has nearly 350 European institutional members and associate members in over 40 countries, from as far afield as New Zealand and Japan. These members together form a network of many thousands of individual political scientists, international relations and European studies specialists.

activities include:

- * Organising workshops, roundtables, conferences and summer schools
- * Publishing journals, books, articles and newsletters
- * Providing a comprehensive information source for political scientists through its website, electronic bulletins and online searchable databases.

who can become a member?

Any university, college, or department of any scholarly institution in Europe engaged in teaching and research in political science may apply for full membership of the Consortium. Non European institutions of similar status are eligible to become associate members.

Membership of the ECPR is institutional rather than individual. This means that any individual (of post graduate status and above) from any department in a member institution may participate in ECPR activities.

All information about ECPR activities is available on the ECPR web site: www.ecprnet.org benefits of ecpr membership:

The biggest benefit of membership is in being part of a large network of academics with related research interests. However, members are also entitled to:

- * participate (without paying the usual conference fee of £250/350 Euros) in the annual Joint Sessions of Workshops. Full members may apply to direct a workshop at the Joint Sessions; associate members may apply to codirect a workshop. Full members are eligible to receive a reimbursement as a contribution towards their travel and per diem costs.
- * participate, at reduced rates, in the General Conference. ECPR members may apply to be a section/panel chair at the conference.
- * apply for the mobility fund for graduate students who wish to participate in any ECPR activities, i.e. Joint Sessions of Workshops, General and Graduate Conferences and summer schools.
- * organise a standing (research) group; associate members can co-direct a standing group. All members are encouraged to join and play a full part in any of the ECPR standing groups.
- * participate in ECPR sponsored summer schools at reduced rates.
- * receive a free subscription to the ECPR journal, European Journal of Political Research (EJPR) and European Political Science (EPS).
- * receive a discount on books published by ECPR Press, Routledge and Oxford University Press, as well as discounts on Palgrave Macmillan journals and all books and personal subscriptions to journals published by Blackwell or Polity Press.

WELCOME FROM THE LOCAL ORGANISER

This year the ECPR's fourth biennial General Conference (GC) is bringing to Pisa more than 1500 participants. Hopefully many of them will come with family, partners, and friends, as this old and proud Maritime Republic has all it takes to please so many visitors from all over the world.

Over the centuries, Pisa has been the host for diverse global travellers: amongst them emperors, kings, merchants, scholars, and poets such as Lord Byron and Percy B. Shelley. But more recently, its beauty, artistic treasures, and cultural appeal have made it a favourite, yet quiet and friendly, tourist destination. Pisa's cultural tradition and academic prominence were fostered and are still preserved by its three prestigious universities: the University of Pisa, one of the oldest in Europe and, more recently, the Scuola Normale Superiore and the Scuola Superiore di Studi Universitari Sant'Anna. This trio of excellence, located in the old Roman castrum, provides a unique intellectual context for the success of the GC.

Although historically rich and cosmopolitan, the city is small, having maintained its original medieval character; it seems quite a miracle that we were able to accommodate all our ECPR guests and to find enough seminar rooms to hold hundreds of panels and other events. But we are used to miracles, here... you know: Pisa is famous for its "Field of Miracles", the magnificent square situated just minutes away from the University's oldest building, the Sapienza, in and around which the GC is being held. This does not mean that the Pisani have no use for rationality and science. It was indeed in that very square and from the top of its Leaning Tower that Galileo performed his first experiments that allowed him to contradict Aristotle. This may be only a legend, but Pisa's native sons' enormous contribution to science is a fact.

A city of science, art, and history, Pisa is very laid back. The pace is slow and a stroll through the pedestrian centre is a privilege to be enjoyed even by the most earnest GC participant. Food is simple but savoury; wines are refined yet generously hearty; cappuccino and gelato in the city centre's narrow and winding streets and aperitivi in the trendy Market Square are all a must.

Struggling not to be distracted by this unique setting, many helped me during the past two years. Eugenio Pizzimenti, Enrico Calossi, Alberto Vannucci, Massimiliano Andretta, Simona Iacopetti, Caterina Paolucci, Mauro Vaiani, Fedrico Russo, Nicola Chelotti, Edoardo Bressanelli, and about fifty student helpers worked hard, with great enthusiasm and dedication, for the GC's organisation. Emanuele Bellini, Guido Ferrini, Paola Giovannetti, Consuelo Bonomi, Elena Tonsini, Giovanni Battista Lazzeri, Alessandro Germelli, Marino Orsucci, and Gianluca De Lillo all performed fundamental administrative and logistical tasks. I wish to thank them all for their generous help and commitment.

I am also very grateful to all the academic authorities whose support made it possible to hold the GC at Pisa University. In particular: the Rector, Prof. Marco Pasquali; Deputy-Rector Prof. Margherita Galbiati; the Principal of the Faculty of Political Science, Prof. Claudio Palazzolo; and the Principal of the Faculty of Law, Prof. Marco Goldoni. The Scuola Superiore di Studi Universitari Sant'Anna generously offered to host the GC's thematic symposium and to sponsor and hold one of the receptions in its beautiful surroundings. Special thanks go to the Scuola's President, Prof. Riccardo Varaldo and to Professors Barbara Henry and Anna Loretoni. I wish to express my deepest gratitude also to the European University Institute, the EU Commission's Rome Delegation, the Tuscan Regional Government, the Province of Pisa, as well as the University of Pisa for their financial contributions.

Finally, Clare Dekker, Louise Hawkrige, Sandra Thompson, Emer Padden, and the other staff at ECPR Central Services, besides flawlessly performing all the tasks related to academic and administrative aspects of the GC, provided us with invaluable guidance, help, and support.

I wish you a very pleasant stay in our city and a very successful conference. Welcome to Pisa!

Luciano Bardi

LOCAL INFORMATION

History

Pisa was originally an Etruscan settlement and subsequently a Roman colony. In the Middle Ages, the ancient and proud Maritime Republic, rising close to the Tirrenian Sea on the banks of the Arno, reached its period of maximum splendour: the numerous civilian and religious edifices, the squares, the typical narrow alleys running perpendicular to the river, testify, in the historic centre's form a urbis, to a remarkable economic and political stability. Traces of the Roman and medieval settlements were completely lost, partly because of the bombing during WWII, but there are still ample stretches of the ancient town walls. In the XI Century Pisa intensified trade in the Mediterranean Sea and conquered Sardinia and the towns of Reggio Calabria, Palermo, Bona and Al Mahdiya in Africa. Oriented towards Ghibelline politics, Pisa was the only free Commune in all of Tuscany to openly support the Swabian sovereigns (Frederick I Barbarossa, Henry VI, Frederick II, Manfredi and Corradino) and was thus in contrast with the Papacy. The excommunication of the city in 1241 was caused officially by the capture and consignment to Emperor Frederick II of a few high ranking priests, who were on their way to a council in Rome. The gradual decline of the city was decreed at first by its rival Genoa with the defeat of Meloria in 1284 and subsequently by the victory of Florence, which made Pisa become a part of the Florentine kingdom. The loss of Sardinia and of its long time predominance over the sea placed Pisa in a kind of golden isolation, from which it only re-emerged around 1500.

Overview

Pisa is situated on the banks of the river Arno, just 80 km away from Florence and 10 km from the sea. Due to its geographic location, it is a popular tourist centre. The climate, mild and temperate because of the vicinity to the sea and the protection offered by the mountains in the background, has given Pisa a primary place as a national and international travel destination. As the fulcrum of an area astride the provinces of Lucca and Livorno, its territory is particularly suitable for farm-holidays, trekking, cycling, horse-riding, bird watching, golf, open-air and water sports that can be practised along the sandy beaches of the coast, which are all equipped with bathing establishments, hotels and restaurants. In the Regional Nature Park of Migliarino-San Rossore-Massaciuccoli, extending for 23,000 hectares along the coast from Viareggio to Livorno, with tree groves and Mediterranean shrubs, you can frequently encounter deer, boar and over two-hundred varieties of migratory birds. From the artistic point of view, Pisa preserves, with the complex of Piazza dei Miracoli – which figures among UNESCO's cultural patrimony of humanity – numerous masterpieces of civil and military architecture and of medieval history. To this treasures can be added the Certosa of Pisa at Calci (10 km from Pisa) and the Basilica of San Piero a Grado (5 Km), recommended visits for lovers of Romanesque art. Pisa's cultural and academic tradition boasts, besides the most ancient botanical garden in Europe, a prestigious athenaeum flanked by the Scuola Superiore di Studi Universitari Sant'Anna and the Scuola Normale Superiore instituted by Napoleon Bonaparte in 1813, two of the top educational establishments in the country.

Getting to Pisa

The historic centre of Pisa is roughly in the shape of a quadrilateral surrounded by 12th-century walls, with sides measuring 1,5 km. The Arno crosses the city from east to west, cutting it into two parts named Tramontana (north) and Mezzogiorno (south).

Situated on the southern edge of the city centre is Pisa central station (Pisa Centrale), a major junction in the Italian railway system. Pisa's Galileo Galilei International Airport, located one and a half kilometres further south, has a railway terminal of its own (Pisa Aeroporto) providing direct access to Pisa Centrale and the rest of the regional and national network.

The old city is easily reached from the airport (20 min) and the central station (10 min) by bus (LAM Rossa) or taxi. Frequent bus connections are also available for other parts of the city, and in particular for the eastern outskirts, where the new administrative centre and the Cisanello Hospital are located (LAM Blu).

The tourist area par excellence – the Field of Miracles, with the famous Leaning Tower – is situated at the north-western end of the old city. Hotels and other accommodation facilities are mostly concentrated in the areas adjoining the central station and the Field of Miracles, even though excellent alternatives are available throughout the city (information and booking: Consorzio Pisa è, tel. 050-830253, info@pisae.it).

Motorists can leave their cars at the free shuttle parks and reach the city centre on foot or by bus (shuttles C and E). Pay and display car parks are available close to the pedestrian area for those who are not fond of walking, or are simply in a hurry. Access to the limited traffic zone (ZTL) is controlled by cameras, and all infringers are identified and fined. Disabled persons can obtain a temporary ZTL permit by dialling the freephone number 800-086540.

The small size of the city, the fact that most places of interest are concentrated in the historic centre and the large pedestrian areas make it ideal for walks. An alternative and equally eco-friendly means of transport is the bicycle, used on a daily basis by locals and university students, and increasingly popular with tourists, as is clearly shown by the numerous bike rentals that have sprung up in recent years.

Boat tours on the Arno (from May to October) provide an opportunity to see Pisa from an unusual perspective. Two tours are available – the Tour dei Lungarni, limited to the city centre, and the Tour Natura, extending westwards to include the Park of San Rossore.

City Sightseeing tours on panoramic double-decker buses cover the Park of San Rossore as well as the riversides and the Field of Miracles.

Further opportunities to visit the city are offered by the fun train starting from the Piazza dell'Arcivescovado, near the Leaning Tower (rides can be booked by calling 050-533755), and the traditional horse-drawn carriages waiting in the Piazza dei Miracoli.

For conference participants the APT of Pisa has organised special tours at convenient prices, which can be booked at an apposite desk on the conference premises.

Getting Around

By Bus - CPT (tel. 050-505-511 or 800-012-773 in Italy; www.cpt.pisa.it) runs the city's buses. Bus nos. 1, 3, and 11 run most directly to Campo dei Miracoli from the main train station. Bus tickets may be purchased at the station, tobacconists, newsagents. Check with your hotel concierge for the nearest bus stop and bus routes. The tickets must be validated on boarding the bus, and kept until you have left the bus stop. You may be controlled also after descending from the bus.

By Taxi - Taxis rank on Piazza Stazione and Piazza del Duomo. Call a radio taxi at tel. 050-541-600. In Italy taxis cannot be caught on the street, you must phone the company to get a taxi.

By Bike - Getting around Pisa and its surroundings by bicycle is ideal. It allows you to get a real taste of the city and of the beautiful natural landscape which has been so thoughtfully preserved, like for instance in the San Rossore Estate or the Massaciuccoli Park.

Tourist Information

The main tourist office is just outside Porta Santa Maria on the west end of Campo dei Miracoli at Via C. Cammeo 2 (tel. 050-560-464 or 050-830-253; www.pisa.turismo.toscana.it; open daily May-Oct 9am-7:30pm, until 5:30pm Nov-Apr). A small office is to the left as you exit the train station (tel. 050-42-291). Either can hand out maps and pamphlets. "Custodians of the Duomo" usually hang around the Museo dell'Opera del Duomo desk and can be asked for information. The administrative APT office is at Via Pietro Nenni 24 (tel. 050-929-777; fax 050-929-764). A helpful private tourism consortium shares office space with the Via C. Cammeo tourist office (tel. 050-830-253; fax 050-830-243; www.pisae.it); among other services, it will book rooms for free.

To find out what's going on in town, pick up a copy of the free weekly Indirizzi e Servizi (at some newsstands and hotels).

Banks

All the major credit cards are accepted in Italy, although it would be advisable for you to have some cash always at hand, since for small purchases (like taxis or coffee and gelato) you won't be able to pay with credit card most of the time.

You can use your credit card to obtain cash from some ATMs very close to the venues of the conference. The closest are:

Unicredit Banca SPA – Piazza Garibaldi n. 1;

Banca Monte dei Paschi di Siena – Lungarno Pacinotti n. 9;

Banca Toscana SPA – Via di Banchi n. 10

Tipping

Tipping is not common in Italy except in restaurants, where nevertheless a 15% "service charge" is usually added to the total (called "coperto" or "servizio"); it is customary to give the waiter an additional 5%-10%, depending on the quality of the service.

Telephone

The country code for Italy is 39, the city code for Pisa is 050. Dial the "zero" as well after the country code to reach a local number (0039-050.....) but don't dial any zero before a cell-phone number (0039-334.....). Generally, depending on your telephone provider, your cellphone will work in Italy in roaming profile with one of the four main telephone companies Tim, Vodafone, Wind or "3".

The Ancient Ships of Pisa

In 1998, an inspection was carried out before work was to begin on the foundations of a new FS National Railways control centre in the vicinity of the Pisa-San Rossore train station, not far behind the Leaning Tower. The builders made an amazing discovery only 500 metres from the Piazza dei Miracoli: they found the remains of the urban harbour of Pisae, the ancient Etruscan and Roman harbour and in it were found several ancient ships, perfectly preserved.

This was immediately acknowledged as a discovery of great historical importance for several reasons, not least of which, for the number of archaeological finds present at the site

There are at least 16 ancient ships, 9 of which are presently being recovered. This is an amazing discovery, because there are no other examples of ancient ships (1st century B.C - 4th century A.C.) so well preserved. Perhaps even more significantly, their cargo was found, including the most perishable goods such as ropes, rigging, fishing equipment, equipment for negotiating the canals, anchors made from stone, wood and iron, baskets and fishing pots.

The Museum of the Ancient Ships of Pisa will be ready in 2009. At the moment, there is an interesting "Exhibition in Progress" hosted in the Arsenali Medicei (Medici Shipyards - built by the Florentine family), on Lungarno Simonelli.

The Arsenals are a very important monument themselves, dating back to the 16th century and well worth a visit. They have been defined as an example of industrial architecture ante litteram, and were the heart of boat-building. The brick building lies at the edge of the historic centre on the side of the river opposite the beautiful old church of San Paolo a Ripa d'Arno, where, according to legend, the poet Pier delle Vigne committed suicide. It is a magical place in itself, and the Museum will add to the immense historical value of this area.

Keith Haring's Mural (1989)

The theme of this beautiful mural is that of peace and harmony in the world, which can be read through the links between the 30 figures which, like a puzzle, occupy 180 square metres of the south wall of the church of St. Anthony, just off Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II.

Attractions in the immediate surroundings

The San Rossore Park extends along the Tyrrhenian coast from Viareggio to Livorno. It covers an area of 24,000 hectares characterised by sandy beaches, vast stretches of Mediterranean bush, pinewoods and humid areas populated by deer, wildboar and many bird species. Points of interest are Lake Massaciuccoli (ideal for bird watching) and the estates of San Rossore, Tombolo and Coltano. The Visitors' Centre of the San Rossore Estate organises guided excursions on foot or horseback, by bike, bus or carriage. Guided tours and environmental labs are also available at the Villa Medicea in Coltano and the Foresteria della Sterpaia, both providing accommodation for visitors.

Driving north towards the Pisan Mountains we come to two protected areas, interesting in terms of both history and nature. The Monte Castellare area is an ideal habitat for wild orchids, which offers a walking itinerary passing through the remains of a medieval fortress. The Valle delle Fonti is rich in water springs which have been used to meet Pisa's water needs ever since the 15th century. The area also features olive-groves producing high-quality oil and covering wide terraces separated by the typical partition walls. Guided tours can be booked with the Cooperativa Le Muse, tel. 050-539277, 050-533650, andrea@dsb.

As early as the first half of the 19th century Lake Bientina was the largest humid area in Tuscany. Subsequent reclamation caused the progressive drying of the area between the provinces of Pisa and Lucca that is now known as "padule". The WWF Oasis "Bosco di Tanali" preserves a rich heritage of flora and fauna and is also a compelling destination for birdwatchers. Guided tours for groups can be booked with the Environmental Education Centre (tel. 0587-756495, 0587-56200).

On the way to Castelfranco di Sotto is the recently established Montefalcone Nature Reserve, offering facilities for natural itineraries and guided excursions in the Cerbaie woods.

Driving southwards from Pisa along the SS 206 we come to the typical Tuscan landscape of the Pisan Hills. The WWF Oasis of Santa Luce covers over 105 hectares surrounded by woodland and Mediterranean bush; the lake of the same name is an interesting humid area and a halting place for many aquatic birds, which makes it ideal for bird watching. The Visitors' Centre, located a mere ten-minute drive from the seaboard, offers guided excursions for groups.

In addition to the landscape of cultivated fields and cypress avenues, the Upper Cecina River Valley is characterised by natural erosion phenomena ("calanchi" and "biancane") whose most striking manifestation is to be found in Volterra's "balze". The area also boasts a number of nature reserves, including the wooded areas of Berignone-Tatti and Monterufoli. The former was famous for wild boar hunting and timber production; the latter was noted for its stone quarries and mineral deposits. The Environmental Education Centres in Volterra, Monterufoli and Riparbella (tel. 0588-62003), offer guided tours and excursions as well as educational labs and natural and archaeological itineraries.

Plenary Lecture

Stefano Bartolini, Bologna, Università degli Studi di
Friday 7 September 1745
Room 33 (Piazza dei Cavalieri - Polo Didattico)

The waning of cleavages: Should we be bothered?

The lecture reviews the use of the concept of cleavage since the 1960s and defends a 'strong' theoretical use of the concept as opposed to its more generalised use for a variety of political divisions. It then sketches a typology of political divisions among which cleavages represent a distinct type. It argues that cleavages are one of the three main structuring principles of European politics, alongside centre-periphery relations and the articulation of corporate interests. The evidence of cleavages waning is then reviewed. The final part of the talk draws implications from this alleged waning, first, for other forms of political structuring, second, for our capacity to analyse and understand electoral behaviour and competition, and third for democratic theory (and in particular responsiveness and accountability). The lecture concludes with some reflections on the concept of an 'unstructured polity'.

Roundtable

Chair: Giorgio Freddi, Bologna, Università degli Studi di
Thursday 6 September 1800-1930 (Room: 20 La Sapienza)

Can some democracies claim to be of higher quality than others?

The quality and performance of democracies constitutes a central interest of contemporary political science, as demonstrated in a growing body of literature, which is characterised by a number of definitional, analytical and empirical approaches. This roundtable, while not comprehensive in scope, brings together leading specialists to provide a broad overview and discussion of the major approaches, with three of the presentations being general and theoretical in nature, and two adopting a more comparative and empirical slant:

1. The impact of political participation on the quality of democracy.
2. The relationship between performance and the quality of democracy.
3. The practice of 'advocacy democracy' and the quality of democracy.
4. The quality of democracy in southern Europe (esp. the Italian case).
5. The adequacy and perception of Western democratic models to the Soviet bloc.

Special Lecture

Sponsored by the European Commission
Saturday 8 September 1030 (Room 20, La Sapienza)

The EU fifty years after the Treaty of Rome
Giuliano Amato and Yves Mény

Giuliano Amato is an Italian politician. He was Prime Minister of Italy twice, first from 1992 to 1993 and then from 2000 to 2001. He was more recently Vice President of the Convention on the Future of Europe that drafted the new European Constitution and headed the Amato Group. He is commonly nicknamed dottor Sottile, (which means both "Dr. Thin" and "Dr. Subtle", a joke about both his physical thinness and his political insightfulness). In 2006 he has been named Minister of the Interior in Romano Prodi's government.

Yves Mény is a former Chairman of ECPR and is currently President of the European University Institute in Florence. Professor Mény has taught at the universities of Rennes, Paris2, and the Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Paris and at the EUI. In 1993 Professor Mény was appointed Director of the newly-founded Robert Schuman Centre at the EUI. In 2001 he was elected President of the EUI and took office on 1 January 2002.

Prizes

The following ECPR prizes will be awarded on Friday 7 September, immediately following a wine reception co-hosted by the ECPR and Blackwell Publishing. The plenary lecture will take place after the presentation of the prizes.

ECPR Lifetime Achievement Award for an Outstanding Contribution to European Political Science

Awarded to: Professor Philippe Schmitter

Brief profile of the award winner:

Philippe Schmitter (1936) studied at the Graduate Institute for International Studies of the University of Geneva and subsequently took his doctorate at the University of California at Berkeley. In 1967 he was appointed as assistant professor by the Department of Political Science of the University of Chicago, where he later became full professor. Between 1986 and 1996 he taught at the European University Institute (1982-86), then moved to Stanford (1986-96). He taught again at the EUI until 2004 and was thereafter nominated Professorial Fellow of the Department of Social and Political Sciences of that Institute. Prof. Schmitter has published numerous books and articles on comparative politics, on regional integration in Western Europe and Latin America, on the transition from authoritarian rule in Southern Europe and Latin America, and on the intermediation of class, sectoral and professional interests.

Motivation of the jury:

In his brilliant academic career, Philippe Schmitter has given a fundamental contribution to the advancement of political science and its consolidation as an academic discipline. His scientific work is characterised by an outstanding intellectual breath and has spanned across several sectors of the discipline: from comparative politics to European studies, from political theory to political economy. In each of these fields, Prof. Schmitter has left a recognisable and important mark, not only by addressing in original ways some "classical" questions in the study of politics but also by posing new, challenging questions and outlining innovative research agendas. On themes such as neo-corporatism, democratic transitions, regional integration processes (including European integration) the work of Philippe Schmitter has offered pioneering theoretical contributions and has opened new paths for empirical research, inspiring and orienting the work of other political scientists around the world.

A truly cosmopolitan scholar, Prof. Schmitter has been strikingly active and successful not only on the front of scientific production, but also in the spheres of teaching, research promotion and organisation, professional service, public and policy debates. His impressive achievements are widely acknowledged and highly appreciated and have contributed to setting new standards of excellence for political science in Europe and beyond.

Mattei Dogan Foundation Prize in European Political Sociology

Awarded to: Professor Giovanni Sartori

Brief profile of the award winner

Born in Florence in 1924, Giovanni Sartori graduated in Political and Social Sciences at the University of Florence in 1946 where, after qualifying for teaching History of Modern Philosophy and Doctrine of the State, he became lecturer of Modern Philosophy (1950-56) and Political Science (1956-63), and professor of Sociology (1963-66). After becoming full professor of Political Science and teaching at Florence University from 1966 to 1976 he taught also at the European University Institute (1974-76) and later became professor of Political Science at Stanford University (1976-79). Professor Sartori is currently Albert Schweitzer Professor Emeritus in the Humanities at Columbia University, New York (since 1994), and Professor Emeritus at the University of Florence (since 1992). After having given a vital contribution to the development of the Rassegna Italiana di Sociologia, Professor Sartori was the founder and long time director of the Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica (1971-2003).

He has received numerous honours, awards and prizes, among which the Gold Medal for cultural and educational merits from the President of the Italian Republic, the Outstanding Book Award of the American Political Science Association (APSA) for Parties and Party Systems: A Framework for Analysis (1998), the Principe de Asturias Prize in the Social Sciences (2005), the ECPR Lifetime Achievement Award (2005), the APSA - Methodology Section - Lifetime Achievement Award (2006).

Motivation of the jury

In his outstanding career, Giovanni Sartori has given a lasting contribution to the advancement of political sociology and its consolidation as an academic discipline in Italy and Europe with an undeniable world-wide impact. His scientific work is characterised by an unsurpassed intellectual breath and has spanned from democratic theory, constitutional engineering, parliaments and representative institutions, elections and electoral behaviour, to parties and party systems. In particular, Prof. Sartori has elaborated the most widely used classification system for party systems. In what can be rightfully considered the richest and most imaginative comparative study of political parties in the literature, he suggested that party systems should be classified according to the number of relevant parties and to the degree of ideological polarisation. His conceptualisation and operationalisation of Left-Right ideological distance are among the foundations of most contemporary political sociology research. In his many significant methodological articles on the use of the comparative method in the social sciences, Prof. Sartori set the standards for closely reasoned, tightly structured argumentation in political theory. His work's conceptual clarity, methodological rigour, analytical brilliance, and relentless interest in theory-building have made Giovanni Sartori one of the most prominent political sociologists of the XX and XXI centuries.

2007 Jean Blondel PhD Prize

Awarded to: Tanja E. Aalberts for her dissertation Politics of Sovereignty.

Brief profile of the award winner

Since August 2006, Tanja E. Aalberts has been Assistant Professor at Leiden University, Department of Political Science. She obtained an MA in 1999 in Public Administration and Management (Bestuurskunde) at Twente University, Enschede, and in 2000 an Msc Econ. in International Politics at the University of Wales, Aberystwyth. In June 2006, she defended her dissertation Politics of Sovereignty.

Motivation of the jury

The jury of the prize considered this an outstanding dissertation. It is very well written and the argument is clearly presented. The author demonstrates academic maturity and mastery of the relevant literature. The thesis makes a well-sustained case for its key finding, i.e. that 'Sovereignty is not merely an organising principle [...] as the English School maintains, but by connoting in addition international personality and legal status it ultimately identifies agency in terms of eligibility to play the sovereignty game.' (p. 170) The author succeeds in demonstrating how interaction and inter-subjectivity contribute to establish sovereignty as a norm in international relations that is neither exclusively agentic nor exclusively structural. The thesis addresses a much debated subject and succeeds in offering a genuine contribution to the literature based on thorough and careful reviews of the relevant literature in the field and a reconstruction and reassessment of the handling of 'sovereignty' in IR theory.

identity, competition and electoral availability

*the classic text by Stefano Bartolini and Peter Mair,
now re-printed as an 'ECPR Classic'*

The question of whether Western party systems were becoming more unstable and electorates more volatile had already become central to the study of modern Europe by the end of the 1970s. Much of the literature at the time stressed how Western Europe was experiencing a phase of party breakdown, dealignment and decay, and how traditional mass politics was in the process of transformation. In this first book-length analysis of the subject, Stefano Bartolini and Peter Mair convincingly demonstrated how this emphasis on change had been largely misconceived and misplaced. This was the first systematic and conceptually sophisticated work to bring together the study of electoral change and cleavage persistence, and has since become one of the landmark volumes in the study of electoral politics in Europe.

globalisation: an overview

The term 'globalisation' is now common in our language, often used as an extremely general ordinative and explanatory concept, able on its own to give meaning, whether positive or negative, to the current transition to the third millennium. But it is all too often subject to rhetorical and ideological misuse. In reality, the processes involved in globalisation are highly complex and affect clearly differentiated social spheres, including the economy, mass communications, domestic and international affairs, ecology, law and military strategy. By helping readers make a critical appraisal of the vast array of books that take 'globalisation' as a paradigm for the contemporary human situation and analysing the concepts involved and clarifying some of the theoretical issues, Danilo Zolo hopes to contribute to curbing such misuse of this important term.

parties and party systems

*the classic text by Giovanni Sartori
now re-printed as an 'ECPR Classic'*

In this rich and broad-ranging volume, Giovanni Sartori outlines what is now recognised to be the most comprehensive and authoritative approach to the classification of party systems. He also offers an extensive review of the concept and rationale of the political party, and develops a sharp critique of various spatial models of party competition. This is political science at its best – combining the intelligent use of theory with sophisticated analytic arguments, and grounding all of this on a substantial cross-national empirical base. Parties and Party Systems is one of the classics of postwar political science, and is now established as the foremost work in its field.
