about the ecpr

Established in 1970, the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) is an independent, scholarly association that supports and encourages the training, research and cross-national co-operation of political scientists through Europe and the rest of the world.

To fulfil its remit, the ECPR organises a number of events each year: the Joint Sessions of Workshops, Summer- and Winter Schools in Methods and Techniques, Research Sessions and the General Conference, which from 2014, will become an annual event. A Graduate Student Conference is also held biennially, the next being this July in Bremen. To facilitate participation in these events, the ECPR offers grants and funding, as well as reduced fees (and in the case of the Joint Sessions, no conference fee) to its members.

Complementing these events, and indeed in some cases publishing research presented at them, is the ECPR's extensive publishing portfolio. Not only does the ECPR have its own publishing imprint, the ECPR Press, but it also publishes three leading journals (European Journal of Political Research, European Political Science Review, and its professional journal European Political Science) and two high-profile book series (Comparative Politics and Research Methods) with academic publishers. ECPR members receive print copies of all three journals and individuals receive significant discounts on all book series above.

The ECPR also formalises its aim to create networking opportunities through its Standing Groups. These are groups of researchers, in many cases formed at ECPR events, that could be as small as producing only a mailing list or website, or as large as organising their own summer school or publishing their own journal. The ECPR now has some 42 Standing Groups, covering all sub-fields of the discipline, all of which are eligible to receive grants to help with their organisation, and the running of their summer schools.

Each year the ECPR marks the achievements of its membership by awarding a number of prizes. These cover the spectrum of a scholar's career, from the Jean Blondel PhD Prize, for example, to the Lifetime Achievement Award.

The ECPR's membership is institutional and is currently comprised of some 400 universities concerned with the teaching and research of political science. However, whilst the membership fee is paid for by the university, it is the individuals within it which receive the benefit; from Masters and PhD students, through to the most senior professor; and from all related disciplines, not just political science.

Simona Piattoni (BA, MA in Economics at Bocconi University 1986; PhD in Political Science MIT 1996) is Professor of Political Science at the University of Trento (Italy, 2001–09, 2012–) where she teaches Comparative Politics, European Politics and Local Government. She has previously taught at the Universities of Tromsø (Norway, 1994-99) and Innsbruck (Austria, 2010–11). She has been visiting scholar at the European University Institute, Florence (1999–2001) and the University of California, Berkeley (2005, 2008).

Her main research interests are clientelism in a comparative perspective, and informal and multi-level governance.

Simona Piattoni,
Chair, Executive Committee, ECPR

Marco Verweij,
Professor of Political Science, Jacobs University

Marco Verweij studied at the Erasmus University Rotterdam, the London School of Economics and the European University Institute. After earning his keep at the Max Planck Institute for Research on Collective Goods, he taught at the Singapore Management University, before joining Jacobs University. In his research, he attempts to contribute to a better understanding of the institutional conditions under which decision-making about pressing international issues can be made more creative and less self-destructive. His latest publication is a monograph entitled Clumsy Solutions for a Wicked World How to Improve Global Governance (Palgrave Macmillan, 2011).

Susanne K. Schmidt studied at the University of Marburg, University of Hamburg and University of Sussex, and joined the Max Planck Institute in Cologne in 1990. She earned her PhD from the University of Hamburg in 1998 and habilitated at the University of Hagen in 2005. Before joining the University of Bremen in 2006, she was a Professor of Political Science at the University of Bielefeld. Since 2009, she is Dean of BIGSSS. Her research interests lie in the field of European integration, focusing on the institutional conditions of decision-making at the European level as well as on the consequences of Europeanisation for member states. She has worked on the impact of European law on policy processes, predominantly with a view to the liberalisation of different highly-regulated sectors, and on mutual recognition as an example for a new mode of governance. Recent work analyses legal integration in the European Union as an example of path dependency.

Susanne Schmidt,
Professor of Political Science, University of Bremen

welcome to the 4th ecpr graduate conference

welcome from the ecpr,

It is my pleasure to welcome you all to the 4th ECPR Graduate Student Conference. This year it will be hosted by the Bremen International Graduate School of Social Sciences (BIGSSS). My personal thanks and the gratitude go to Prof. Susanne Schmidt of Bremen University and Prof. Marco Verweij of Jacobs University for their hospitality and assistance in organising what promises to be a most engaging graduate conference.

The ECPR is proud to organise one of the largest graduate student conferences regularly held in Europe as it considers graduate students an integral part of its organisation and the future of political science. The conference is organised almost exclusively by you, the graduate, giving you the opportunity to acquire a professional experience that, we hope, will propel you in your future careers. Through plenary lectures and roundtables, you will be inspired to consider the large issues of our times and encouraged to make conscious choices for your professional future.

In addition, you will have the opportunity to network and liaise with your peers from throughout Europe and to renew the representatives of the Graduate Student Network that will keep you connected also in between graduate conferences.

I wish you all a fruitful and enjoyable time in Bremen.

With best wishes,

Simona Piattoni, Chair of the ECPR, Professor of Political Science, University of Trento

welcome from the local organisers,

On behalf of the entire BIGSSS organising team, we are happy to welcome you to the 4th ECPR Graduate Student Conference. 'BIGSSS' stands for the Bremen International Graduate School of Social Sciences, in which two universities – the University of Bremen and Jacobs University – collaborate. Our School is funded through the Excellence Initiative of the German Science Foundation.

Since the 2010 Graduate Student Conference in Dublin, the euro-crisis has broken out, the global climate change regime has faltered, the Arab Spring has come and gone, and academic budgets have been cut across Europe, among many other developments. So there will be plenty to discuss – not only in your panels, but also in the roundtables on 'How to Get a Job outside of Europe' and 'How to Get a Job outside of Academia' and other topics. The political science faculties of the University of Bremen and Jacobs University, and our invited speakers, are looking forward to joining you in your discussions.

We very much hope that you will enjoy the Conference. If you have any questions, or experience any problems, then please contact any member of the organising team or any of the student assistants (who will be wearing green conference t-shirts).

Thank you for participating, and all the best,

Susanne K. Schmidt, Professor of Political Science, University of Bremen
Marco Verweij, Professor of Political Science, Jacobs University

the world on one campus

Jacobs University

Jacobs University, Bremen is Germany's leading, English-speaking, private university. The university, opened in 2001, attracts talented students from all over the world – currently, more than 1,300 students from 111 nations live and study on the 30 hectare campus. First class research and teaching, international diversity and transdisciplinary cooperation are the hallmarks of this state-recognised university. Jacobs University students graduate as responsible world citizens ready to take on leadership roles in a globalised workplace. They can choose between Bachelor, Master or PhD diplomas in more than 40 study programmes in Engineering, Natural Sciences, Humanities, and Social Sciences. Students are chosen on the basis of an achievement-oriented, need-blind selection process. A support system of scholarships and loans enables all accepted students to study at Jacobs University.

As a university of the 21st century, Jacobs University's aim is to contribute solutions to the major challenges of today's world. This is why its profile in research and teaching focuses on general topics including, energy, water, nutrition, health, information, communication, education, and peace and conflict management. The research is structured in transdisciplinary research centres, in which scientists from different fields work together. Ten such research centres are currently in place.

University of Bremen

With 290 professors and 19,000 students, the University of Bremen is a mid-sized university offering a large spectrum of subjects; 100 different study programmes organised in 30 academic disciplines.

The University of Bremen was founded in 1971. In the course of its relatively short history it has developed into the science centre of North West Germany. When it was founded it broke new ground in many ways, earning the label "Bremen Model". Some of these breakthroughs have now become standard features of modern universities. For instance interdisciplinarity, research-based learning in projects, and social commitment. For many years now, the University of Bremen has been among the top league of German universities in the area of research. The University has on June 15 2012 been recognised as one of the country's eleven finest universities. It was named as a grand prize winner for research funding from the German federal government's Excellence Initiative. Precondition and basis for this success were two of its institutions also funded by the Excellence Initiative one of them being BIGSSS and the other a cluster of excellence in Marine Biology, MARUM.

Bremen International Graduate School of Social Sciences (BIGSSS)

The Bremen International Graduate School of Social Sciences (BIGSSS) is an inter-university institute of the University of Bremen (UB) and Jacobs University, Bremen. It was founded in 2008 and it is supported by the German Excellence Initiative. On June 15 2012 the funding through the Excellence Initiative was confirmed for another five years. BIGSSS is not a typical PhD and postdoctoral programme. Its goal is to focus all efforts and resources on supporting the outstanding international body of PhD and Postdoctoral Fellows, their research, and their professional development. The PhD programme provides close supervision of dissertation work accompanied by demand-tailored education, both embedded in a vibrant research landscape. The PhD fellows receive relevant theoretical and methodological training, acquire teaching experience in small seminars, and complete their dissertations in a timely manner.

BIGSSS integrates excellent areas of graduate education and research at the University of Bremen (UB) and Jacobs University into a synergetic inter-university institution designed to become an internationally competitive model of graduate education. BIGSSS' guiding principles are education to excellence, quality assurance, and effective funding.

BIGSSS builds on the experience and institutional structure of both UB's Graduate School of Social Sciences (GSSS), funded as a model institution for the reform of advanced graduate education in Germany, and Jacobs' interdisciplinary social-science graduate programmes. Founded upon the core disciplines of political science, sociology and psychology (but also integrating bordering disciplines) and supported by a solid foundation in social-science methodology, BIGSSS offers advanced interdisciplinary training, thus preparing fellows for leading professional positions inside and outside of academia, both nationally and internationally.

BIGSSS' graduate education and research is built around thematic fields which are integrated by the umbrella theme "Changing Patterns of Social and Political Integration". The umbrella theme is used to achieve the degree of coherence necessary for fruitful cross-fertilisation. The three thematic fields are "Global Governance and Regional Integration", "Welfare State, Inequality and Quality of Life", and "Changing Lives in Changing Socio-Cultural Contexts".

BIGSSS is based on the collaboration among a number of outstanding research institutes at the two universities and can draw on a prodigious social-science landscape both at UB and Jacobs. This cooperation facilitates the early integration of doctoral students into a strong research environment, and ensures a cutting-edge research orientation in BIGSSS' curricular and thematic development.

how to be a superdelegate

UIA, The Union of International Associations in Brussels, Belgium, has produced guidelines on how to behave as the perfect attendee at international conferences.

At an international meeting, you are not only representing yourself, or even your own organisation, but your country as well. You should endeavour to do so with appropriate dignity. The only way of participating in an international congress is to do so wholeheartedly and intelligently. It is the behaviour and active participation of the congress – goers which, above all, ensures the success of a congress.

adapt

You are attending a congress in order to work and communicate. You should be prepared to undergo a real change in outlook to adapt yourself to the different ways of thinking of other types of cultures. Also to understand the particular mechanisms of these meetings, their procedures, equipment and organisation. Try to get to know others better and respect them more. Try to understand as well as make yourself understood.

- Don't be the type of participant who cannot adapt.
- Think about what you hope for from the meeting.
- Remember that its duration is limited to a few days.

participate

- Remember that the other participants expect you to contribute something
- Familiarise yourself with the rules of the congress, but with a view to respecting them, not to causing difficulties.
- Do not stay in an ivory tower, but do not take part in discussions just for the pleasure of hearing your own voice or having your name written down in the minutes.
- Make sure your behaviour helps the Chairman and others guide the proceedings to concrete conclusions, in an atmosphere of cooperation and friendship.

circulate

- Make contact with people you already know, but also make a point of meeting as many unfamiliar faces as possible.
- Bring business cards with you.
- Mark on your participants' list the names of those you wish to meet.
- Take advantage of meals, receptions and excursions; change to another group, an unfamiliar table, a different coach.
- Always wear a badge giving your name, nationality and perhaps the languages you speak.

integrate

Discretion is all very well, but timidity is useless and annoying. Remember that others are in the same position as you, and many may be even more isolated. Introduce yourself to other people and make as many introductions as possible between other participants.

- Arrive punctually at meetings.
- Avoid annoying other participants by continual comings and goings, or by private conversations during sessions.
- If there are several sessions taking place at the same time, choose one, and stay there from start to finish.
- Respect the working procedure and the decisions of the organising committee, including those relating to the working languages of the congress.
- Listen carefully, bearing in mind the aims of the congress, the views of the speaker, and your own; make notes while listening.
- During the congress make notes as to how you propose to follow it up, putting down ideas, preparing your report, taking addresses.

Follow these simple guidelines and you'll be an efficient and satisfied delegate!

"It is the behaviour and active participation of the congress-goers which, above all, ensures the success of a congress."

how to be a superchair

Experienced Section Chair and past member of the ECPR's Graduate Network, Rainbow Murray gives her advice on how to get the most out of chairing a panel at the Graduate Conference.

- There is no need to introduce yourself or anyone else at length, unless they are a special invited guest from outside academia. At most, say people's names and institutional affiliations. Let them introduce their papers themselves.
- Try to start the panel on time wherever possible.
- Let the paper-givers speak in the order of the programme unless they request a different order for e.g. technical reasons.
- Keep each paper-giver to time. This is the most important part of the role of chair. You should allow the final third of the session for questions and divide the remaining time evenly between the number of panellists. If one person goes over, they are directly eating out of the time of the other panellists, and that isn't fair. Give people a subtle warning when they are close to time (a raised eyebrow may suffice, otherwise passing them a piece of paper saying "2 minutes" in large letters will do the trick). Pass them another note saying "please conclude" or similar once they are out of time. If they don't stop, you will need to be bold and ask them out loud to wrap up. Even if they are much more senior than you, it is your professional obligation as well as theirs to keep to time, and people will respect you more for being strict than being weak.
- Once all papers have been given, take questions from the audience. If there are lots of questions, try to avoid asking any yourself, but try to think of some just in case the audience take a while to warm up (or go silent very quickly).
- If any of the audience goes off on a lengthy tangent, you may need to interrupt them to refocus the discussion.
- Make sure the session finishes on time. People want their cup of coffee/toilet break, etc and they can always continue the debate over coffee if they care that much.
- Always end the session by inviting the audience to thank the presenters (i.e. round of applause).

Rainbow Murray
Queen Mary University of London

how to be a discussant

As a discussant, you must serve two different needs.

Your first and most important responsibility is to help those in the audience understand the papers better. You should have read the papers very carefully and have taken the time to understand their contributions, strengths and weaknesses, and what the audience needs to know about the papers.

Your second responsibility is to the authors. What are your reactions to the papers and why? What can the authors do to improve the paper? Learning how to read other papers with the critical eye of a good discussant will help you to learn how to write papers that will appeal to the profession.

Potential goals of a discussant

- Briefly summarise the paper's main message and its contribution
- Provide assessment of the paper: Does the paper make its case convincingly?
- Suggest ways to improve the paper. Remember be constructive!
- Highlight the relevance of the paper to academia and society
- Attempt to stimulate further conversation within the audience by posing questions for discussion

tourist information

history of the city of bremen

Bremen, the Hanseatic city on the Weser river, in the north-western part of Germany and part of the Bremen-Oldenburg metropolitan area (2.5 million people), boasts of 1200 years history, tradition and openness to the world. The historical centre around the market square itself is testament to Bremen's roots as an old trading town but the city-state is not to be underestimated as an energetic, young city on-the-go. Apart from its cosmopolitan appeal, Bremen offers a journey back through the centuries, filled with monuments evident of a distinguished past and bristling with enthralling stories. Bremen's attractions include the ornate Weser Renaissance town hall (a UNESCO World Heritage site), the Schnoor (Bremen's oldest quarter with some of the narrowest streets), the quaint buildings in the Böttcherstraße, the St. Petri Cathedral and the statue of Roland on the historical market square. The Roland, Bremen's very own 'statue of liberty', has stood as an emblem of independence since 1404.

restaurants and bars

Bremen offers a wide range of dining and drinking experiences regardless of which area you're in. The recommendations below are grouped by the various areas of Bremen, all close to the city centre and are reachable between 10-20 minutes by public transport or on foot.

Am Markt and Böttcherstraße (Tram and bus lines 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 24, 25; Stop Domsheide)

The area that is close to the City Hall (Rathaus) and the Statue of Roland (both UNESCO World Cultural Heritage sites) offers a few options for traditional German cuisine but is more expensive on average. Right below the cellar of the City Hall is the Bremer Ratskeller (Am Markt), a restaurant that offers local dishes such as the Bremer Knipp (a crispy fried haggis styled oat grout's dish of pork) and Bremer Labskaus (a dish made mainly out of corned beef and mashed potatoes). Fish dishes from the region are also available here. Expect to dine in a venue that has more than 600 years of history. Another place that serves German cuisine is the Ständige Vertretung Bremen (Böttcherstraße 3-5), a locale that originated from the idea that there will be unofficial political institutions (in short, Stävs) when and where official ones fail to fulfill their duties. The restaurant concept of the Stäv was formed in 1997 as a political gastronomy and currently has branches in Hamburg, Hannover, Bremen and Köln. The Stäv Bremen offers some Rheinland dishes and highly recommends its Flammkuchen (Tarte Flambee or "Alsace pizza").

Schlachte (Tram and bus lines 1, 2, 3, 26, 27, 63; Stop Am Brill)

If you would like to dine alfresco along the river Weser, the Schlachte is highly recommended. The area boasts a row of restaurants, bistros, cafes as well as "beer garden" style seating when the weather is good. The price of food here is a little high on average but cheaper than the restaurants at Am Markt and at the Böttcherstraße. If you have a craving for Mexican flavours, try Enchilada (Langenstraße 42). Here you get to enjoy a variety of wraps, from tortillas to fajitas, as well as other meat dishes. Portions are huge. Still along the lines of spicy cuisine, the Bodega del Puerto (Schlachte 31) is a Spanish restaurant and tapas bar that serves its little gems of appetisers in small clay dishes. If you favour continental cuisine instead, the luv (Schlachte 15-18) would be a good bet. Its list of main dishes is varied. Spanning from the "Man steak" (a dish consisting of a 350g rumpsteak) and the original Wiener Schnitzel to fish and chips, this restaurant offers an interesting set of gastronomic feast that will whet your appetite. If you are in the mood for a few cocktails, the Cafe and Bar Celona (Schlachte 32) serves all cocktails at half the usual price after 2200.

Viertel (Tram lines 2, 3, 10; Stop Sielwall)

This area is frequented by students and citizens of Bremen alike, and is known for its alternative atmosphere. The Viertel offers an array of cafes, bistros and quick takeaways at relatively low costs. There are numerous Döner (or kebab) and Falafel takeaways if you are looking for Middle Eastern flavours but must-tries are Sindbad (Ostertorsteinweg 83) and Torno (Am Dobben 71). If you are looking for something Asian, visit Me-kong Grill (Vor dem Steintor 25). The humble-looking Vietnamese takeaway offers freshly stir-fried meals for relatively cheap prices. Try traditional Vietnamese dishes like the Pho Bo (a rice noodle soup with beef) for just €4.80. Besides takeaways, the Viertel also showcases many restaurants in which one may dine in comfort. Highly recommended is the Rotkäppchen (Am Dobben 97), a locale with a quaint atmosphere reminiscent of a french bistro. With a regularly updated menu for its mains, dishes are unexpected but always kept well-portioned and fresh. It serves mostly continental cuisine and dishes average at €7.50. Another restaurant with a similar concept and ambience is Medoo (Friesenstraße 103). Both places also serve vegetarian dishes. Vegetarians and vegans also have the option to dine at Vegefarm (Hamburgerstraße 45/47), a restaurant that specialises in both vegetarian and vegan dishes with an East Asian flavour profile. The Viertel is also popular for its nightlife and the various pubs that populate its streets is testament to this. The colloquially known “Bermuda triangle” is scene to a few pubs that students frequent and they include Urlaub (Fehrfeld 28), Heartbreak Hotel (Fehrfeld 30), Bermuda (Fehrfeld 34), Capri Bar (Fehrfeld 35) and Rum Bumper’s (Humboldtstraße 34). Other pubs within the Viertel worth visiting are Lemans (Keplerstraße 36), Litfass (Ostertorsteinweg 22), Wohnzimmer (Ostertorsteinweg 99), Lagerhaus (Schildstraße 12-19) and Hegarty’s (Ostertorsteinweg 80). The Viertel is also home to the Lila Eule (Bernhardstraße 10), a disco/music club that has been there since 1959, and in which the famous political activist, Rudi Dutschke held a speech in 1976 in the wake of the movements of 1968.

In and around the campus (Train stations Schönebeck and Vegesack)

The on-campus pub, The Other Side, plays host to every party need the students have. For dining purposes, Vegesack, the sleepy town area to the north of Jacobs University, also offers quite a few restaurants. The Strandlust (Rohrstraße 11), a hotel and restaurant, offers both regional cuisine and seasonal dishes and an entree menu that its restauranters deem as cross-over cuisine. Price of meals are expensive. A cheaper alternative is Zur Gläsernen Werft (Schulkenstraße 2). It also has a terrace and a view over the harbour. A main dish of fish from the region costs an average of €15. From Northsea shrimps to Norwegian salmon, the seafood lover in you will be reawaken. Spanish and Mexican cuisine is also available at the Tinto Tapas Bar (Alte Hafenstraße 7) and El Presidente (Zur Vegesacker Fähre 2) for quite fair prices if you are up for meals that excite your taste palettes.

how to get to bremen town hall from jacobs university

From Jacobs University to Schönebeck Train Station

Turn right at the main entrance of the University and walk along the “Bruno-Bürgel-Straße”. Turn right again upon reaching “Grohner Mühlenweg”. The Schönebeck train station is roughly 70m away from there.

Trains towards Bremen Hauptbahnhof (Bremen Central Station) run at 15-minute intervals at peak hours (beginning at 1437). Possible trains to take after the panels end at 1730 include

Schönebeck-Hauptbahnhof

1752 – 1809

1807 – 1824

*1822 – 1839

*Please note that the 1822 train should be the last one you take in order to arrive at the Town Hall in time for the speech that begins at 1900.

From Bremen Central Station to the Town Hall

The fastest and easiest way to get from the Central Station to the Town Hall is by tram or bus. To get to the Town Hall, take trams 4, 5, 6 or 8 or buses 24 or 25 and stop at Domsheide.

From Domsheide, walk towards “Oberstraße” or “Am Dom”. This should lead you to the market plaza. The Town Hall is directly at the plaza.

Accompaniment to the Town Hall

If you wish to be accompanied by our assistants from the University to the Town Hall, please gather at the porters’ lodge at the entrance of the University at 1745.

(Please see page 17 for more details)

jean blondel phd prize 2012

Each year the ECPR awards a prize to the most outstanding thesis presented at a member institution; named after one of the ECPR's founders, Jean Blondel, the ECPR PhD Prize has helped many young scholars begin their career.

The Jean Blondel PhD Prize is closely linked with the ECPR's publishing imprint, the ECPR Press, and as such the prize is two-fold a €1,000 cheque and the opportunity to publish a revised version of your thesis in the ECPR Monographs series.

Whether you have just finished your thesis, or are just about to start it, please see the ECPR website for more information about how you could enter this prestigious prize.

Please visit www.ecprnet.eu/ecprpress for further information

hans daalder prize 2012

The ECPR, in recognition of Professor Hans Daalder, one of the founding fathers of the ECPR, has instituted the Daalder Prize. This prize is an award of €1,000 for an outstanding paper presented at the ECPR's Graduate Student Conference.

We will ask participants at the 2012 Graduate Student Conference to nominate a paper that they thought was outstanding both in terms of its originality and its academic excellence. The papers nominated will be reviewed by the Academic Convenors of the conference. The winner of the Daalder Prize will be announced in October 2012, on the ECPR website and the prize will be presented at the ECPR Joint Sessions in March 2013, which will be held in Mainz.

Nomination procedure

After the conference, to nominate a paper, please email Louise Soper (lhawk@essex.ac.uk) with the name of the paper giver and the paper number (and title if you know it). Each nomination must be supported by a minimum of two conference participants. You cannot nominate your own paper. Nominations will only be accepted for papers for which electronic copies were submitted to the conference. The deadline for nominating a paper is 1st September 2012.

av/computer facilities/internet log in/ presentations

All rooms have overhead projectors, and laptops will be provided. For rooms which do not have these facilities there will be enough portable ones available during the conference.

Wi-Fi is available throughout the campus, free individual passwords are printed on the back of your badge.

There is a general prohibition to make use of P2P. The rules for using the internet on campus can be found here

<https://teamwork.jacobs-university.de/confluence/display/ircit/Policies>

Participants wishing to use Mac computers for presentations will need to use their own cables. Jacobs University also has eduroam available.

library

Participants can use the library but not check out books. The library will be open Monday–Friday from 0900 – 2200 and Saturday and Sunday from 1300 – 2000. The library has a few computers available with internet access for participants use.

sport facilities

There is a soccer field on campus, as well as tennis, basketball and beach volleyball courts. If participants bring equipment, they can make use of these facilities.

accommodation

For those staying on campus, if the transponder (electronic key) is lost there is a charge of €50 to replace it.

Following the BBQ on 4 July, the Student Bar on Jacobs Campus will be open for drinks to conference participants.

emergencies

In case of emergency, call the campus porters on extension number 4800 from on-campus telephones and +49 421 200 4800 from other phones.

photocopying and printing

Photocopying will be limited to a few pages (within reasonable boundaries and copyright laws).

phone

You will find the number of your four-digit extension number on your room phone. All phone numbers on the Jacobs University campus begin with 200, followed by a four-digit extension number. For internal calls, i.e. if you want to call someone on campus, the four-digit extension number of the room you want to call is sufficient. Internal calls are free of charge. For external calls, you need to make use of a calling card (see calling card below). External calls are at your own expense. If you would like to call someone in Bremen, you would first have to dial 0-0049 (for Germany) and then 421 (Bremen's area code). If you would like to call someone outside Germany, you would need to know the respective country and/or area codes. If someone off campus wishes to call you, he/she would have to dial 0421 for Bremen, 200 for Jacobs University and then your four-digit extension. A person calling from another country would first have to dial +49 for Germany and then follow the same pattern as above, excluding the zero preceding the area code, e.g. +49-421-200-xxxx.

calling card

You can buy a calling card at the "Frisör", a small snack shop on campus. As the instructions on these cards are in German only, here is what you have to do

Dial a 0.

Dial the access number stated on the card (0800...).

An automated instruction will ask you afterwards to enter your PIN that you will find on your card.

Then you will be asked to enter the number you wish to dial. You can talk for about 2ct/min. within Germany and for ca. 10-20ct/min. when you make an international call.

You may certainly also try card services of your own phone company. They should work if they have a 0800 access number. Unfortunately, there is no guidance if these cards do not work.

check-out

When checking out, please make sure that you return the key to your room and your transponder at the Welcome Desk if you are leaving during the Welcome Desk's opening hours. If you leave outside opening hours, please return your key to the porters at the main entrance. Please be reminded that you will be charged €50 if you take the keys off campus, no matter how soon you return a key after the end of the conference. We are obliged to follow this University regulation for security purposes.

smoking

Smoking is prohibited in the conference buildings and in the college accommodation. There are smokers' lounges in the colleges. You are responsible for finding out their whereabouts. As students sometimes break the non-smoking rule in the colleges, you may experience mild smoke fumes in some of the college rooms. Please contact the Welcome Desk if you have an issue and we will try to find a solution. However this is not a guarantee.

cash machine/ATM

The closest ones are in the post office (Veegesacker Heerstraße 111, 28757 Bremen) and at the Sparkasse Bremen (Schönebecker Straße 1, 28759 Bremen) at the corner of Friedeich-Humbert-Straße close to a supermarket. Another one is in the Veegesacker pedestrian zone at the Sparkasse Bremen (Gerhard-Rohlf's-Straße 12-14, 28757 Bremen). You will also find an ATM in the Haven Höövt mall in Vegesack.

hospital

The nearest hospital should you run into any medical emergency is Klinikum Bremen-Nord (Hammersbecker Straße 228, 28755 Bremen; Tel. +49-(0)421-6606-0). Bus numbers 75 and 76 stop directly at the main entrance. In case of emergencies, please call the porters before arranging anything on your own.

petrol/gas station

The nearest gas station is "Esso" (Vegesacker Heerstraße 75) opposite the bus station "Schafgegend". They are open 24/7. They also have a 24-hour small shop with the usual assortment of beverages, sanitary products and a few basic groceries.

shopping mall

The Haven Höövt is a mall with various shops such as Italian ice-cream and candy shops, bookstores, clothing stores, grocery stores, florists and fast food eateries amongst many others. It is opposite the Vegesack train station.

pharmacy

There are several pharmacies around the University. The three nearest are between 900 and 1500m away from campus. They are the Albert-Schweitzer Apotheker (Unter den Linden 28), the Kronen Apotheker (Friedrich-Humbert-Straße 149, and the Stadtapotheke Vegesack (Reeder-Bischoff-Straße 28).

post office

There is one post office only 8-10 minutes on foot from Jacobs University. It is on the Vegesacker Heerstraße 111 close to the gas station.

public transport

The city of Bremen is located alongside the River Weser and Jacobs University is part of northern Bremen (Bremen-Nord), about 25 km from the city centre. If you would like to travel between Bremen-Nord and the city centre, you can choose between two public transport options

Trains

There is a 17-minute train ride between Bremen Hauptbahnhof (Central Station) and Bremen-Schönebeck. The Schönebeck train station is within walking distance from the University. Trains from this station going towards Bremen Hauptbahnhof run at 15-minute intervals at peak hours (0637-0907 and 1437-1937), 30-minute intervals during non-peak hours (0437-0606, 0907-1437 and 1937-2337) and hourly at night (2337-0437).

Trains from Bremen Hauptbahnhof going towards Bremen-Schönebeck run at 15-minute intervals at peak hours (0604-0834, 1404-1904), 30-minute intervals during non-peak hours (0434-0604, 0834-1404, 1904-2234) and every 27 minutes between 2234-1207).

Bus

Three bus lines from and to Jacobs University connect you to the surrounding area of Bremen Vegesack. They leave from two different bus stops. One is "Seefahrtstraße" right next to the campus. From Seefahrtstraße, you can also go to Vegesack (Bremen-Nord) by taking the 74, 75 or 677 (towards the direction of Schwanewede, Rönnebeck, Post, Auf dem Bockhorn). You will be able to catch a bus every 10 minutes during the week but less often on weekends. Bus 74 runs until midnight but only twice an hour after 1800.

Another bus stop is "Schafgegend", which is near the train station. There is a night bus (N7) that leaves there at 035, 0334, 0400, 0415 and 0430 to Bremen Hauptbahnhof (city centre).

From Bremen Hauptbahnhof, the N7 leaves at 0000, 0030, 0130, 0230 and 0330 (only on weekends) towards Schafgegend. Do not take the bus at the front gate of the University (Bus 677). It only runs once every few hours and taking this bus will lead you to the middle of nowhere.

Taxi

Taxi fares in Germany are quite high. A cab from Jacobs University to the airport costs between 30 and 50 Euros, depending on traffic. To hire a taxi, call +49 (0)421-14014 or ask for assistance at the porters' lodge.

tipping

The usual tip in restaurants and cafes is up to 10% and rarely more. For hairdressers or taxi drivers, you are expected to round up the price or give a little extra. Note that you should not leave coins on the table, since this is not customary here. If the service were to be truly poor, do not tip at all.

town hall reception (transport)

To obtain free train travel to/from the City Centre for the Town Hall reception, participants will need to carry their name badge for the train, together with some proof of identity. This ticket is only valid on July 5 til midnight only.

food and drink

Breakfast for participants staying on campus will be served in the college they are staying in, and lunch will be served in College III, Mercator College and College Nordmetall. Please show your badge. Food and drink in the fridges in the serveries are not included in the lunch package and require an additional payment. Please pay by cash card, which can be purchased from the porters.

Europeanisation and Party Politics

Edited by Erol Kūlahci
RRP: £65.00
ISBN: 9781907301223
Pub: date May 2012

This book provides a sophisticated theoretical framework and an up-to-date analysis of the Europeanisation of domestic party systems and political parties' policy stances.

It covers a range of contemporary topics party systems, policy stances of political parties, opposition/co-operation over European integration in party systems, cleavage theory of party response to European integration, domestic depoliticisation and EU representation.

Regulation in Practice

Martino Maggetti
RRP: £27.00
ISBN: 9781907301285
Pub date: May 2012

Regulation in Practice explains how Independent Regulatory Agencies (IRAs) work independently from other public and private powers. This is the first book-length study that treats “de facto independence” as the key element for the analysis of IRAs: of how it affects their day-to-day actions; their effectiveness and impact on the politico-administrative system; their reputation and credibility as regulatory powers; and their accountability practices and legitimacy. Regulation in Practice is an important contribution both to the comparative study of the practices of regulatory governance, and to the positive and normative theory of the politics of regulation.

Civil Society in Communist Eastern Europe

Matt Killingsworth
RRP: £27.00
ISBN: 9781907301278
Pub date: May 2012

Challenging the centrally accepted wisdom that dissent in totalitarian regimes was representative of civil society, Civil Society and Communism posits the argument that the totalitarian public sphere, a new theoretical typology, presents a more robust and rigorous way by which to understand dissent and opposition in totalitarian Czechoslovakia, the GDR and Poland.

Political Trust

Edited by Sonja Zmerli and Marc Hooghe
RRP: £45.50
ISBN: 9781907301230
Pub date: December 2011

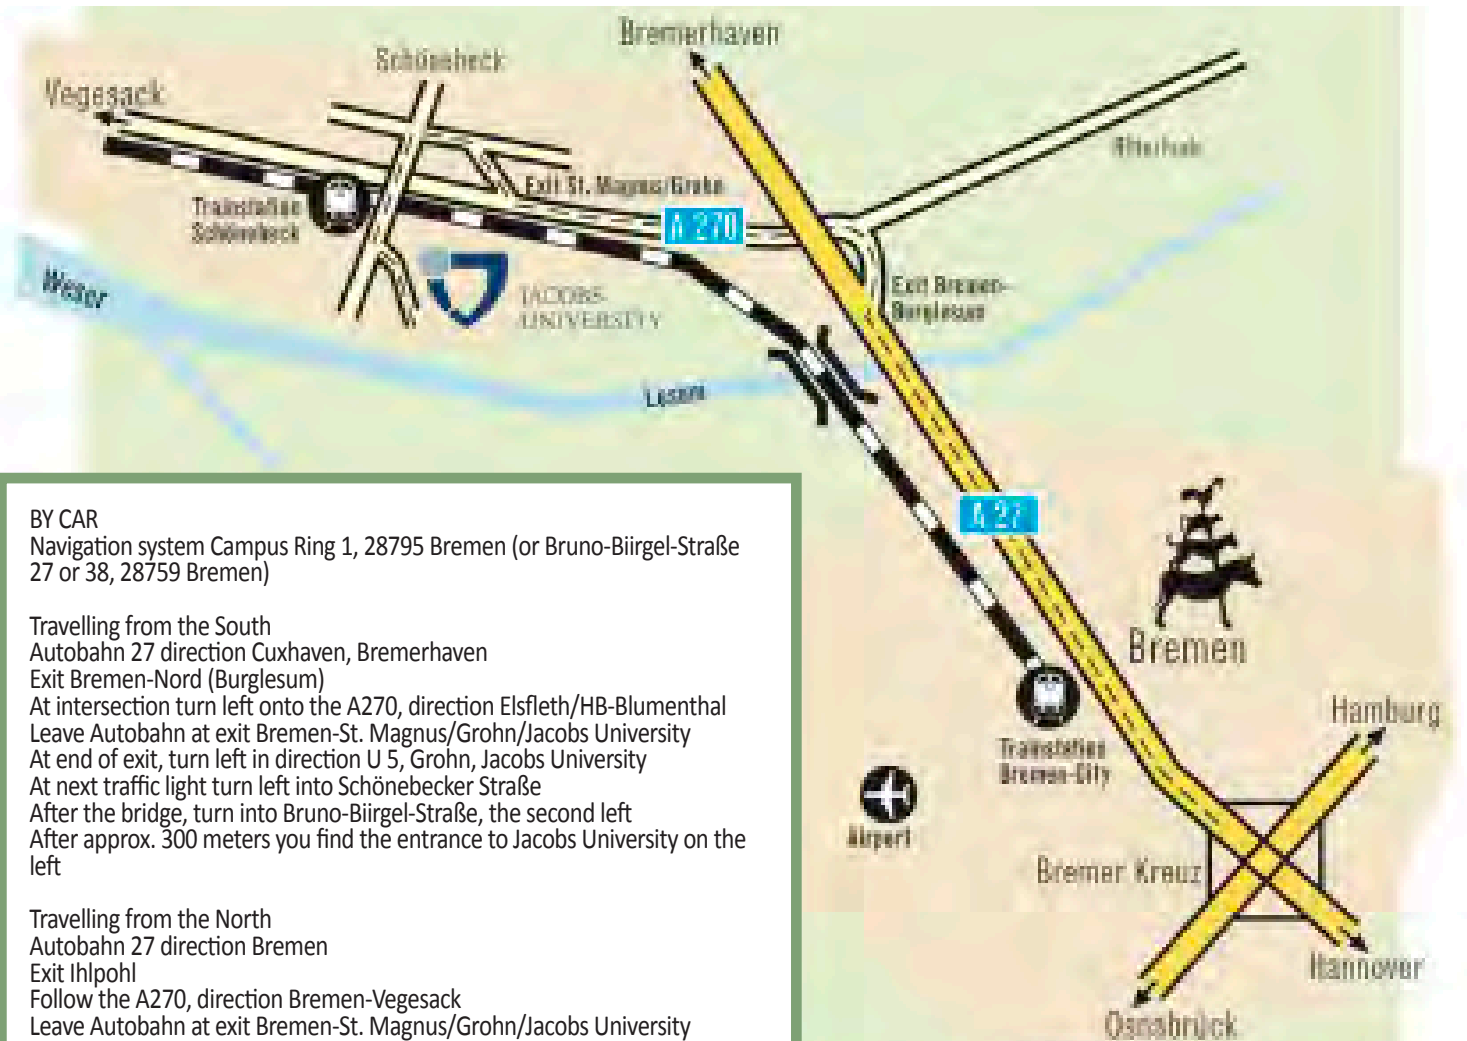

This book presents cutting-edge empirical research on political trust as a relational concept. From a European comparative perspective it addresses a broad range of contested issues construct validity, functional equivalent measurements and trends of political trust. Moreover, it scrutinises why so many Eastern European citizens still distrust their political institutions and how the implementation of welfare state policies can both enhance and benefit from political trust.

ecpr graduate student network

ecpr graduate student network committee elections

Information for candidates interested in standing for committee election will be displayed on Thursday, 5 July 2012, 1230 – 1400 at Jacobs University, Bremen (Registration area). Participants that attended the Graduate Student Conference will receive an email shortly after the conference with details of how to vote for their preferred candidate. A new committee will be elected shortly after the 2012 Graduate Student Conference.

ecpr graduate student network – further information

The GSN is an international association that sits under the umbrella of the ECPR and aims to facilitate postgraduate academic research activity and networking. It is a network specifically created for young scholars, it will provide a framework for interaction and joint initiatives, a forum for the exchange of ideas and experiences between junior researchers in the field of politics and the social sciences, and a range of services and activities will be developed, such as

- An online database (and a Facebook page) which allows you to contact and be contacted by colleagues with related interests;
- Email newsletters providing information about GSN activities, conferences, summer schools, calls for papers etc;
- Web pages containing information about GSN activities and events;
- Graduate development panels and social events at ECPR conferences;
- Promotion of ECPR Prizes
  - the Jean Blondel PhD Prize (awarded to an outstanding PhD thesis)
  - the Hans Daalder Prize (awarded to the best paper presented at the Graduate Student Conference;
  - the Cora Maas Award (for the best Teaching Assistant at the ECPR Summer School in Methods & Techniques) and the Dirk Berg-Schlosser Award (given for the best participant poster at the ECPR Summer School in Methods & Techniques)
- Information on the ECPR Monographs series, which publishes outstanding PhD theses;
- Information about the Graduate Student Conference, held biennially.

Membership to the GSN is on an individual basis and any graduate student, PhD candidate or post-doctoral researcher enrolled at an ECPR member institution is eligible to join the Network.

The GSN is directed by a Coordinating Committee (composed of graduate students) that oversees and directs the activities of the GSN and is closely involved in the organisation of the biennial Graduate Student Conference as well as other ECPR activities. Travel and accommodation costs for meetings of the GSN Committee are covered by the ECPR and a grant can also be applied for, for specific social events and networking functions.

A sign-up sheet to join the Network is available at the registration desks.

plenary lecture

By Michael Zürn

Wednesday 4 July 1800 – 1930

Location Campus Centre Conference Hall (West Wing)

‘Authority and Legitimacy in the Postnational Constellation’

Politics at the beginning of the 21st century is characterised by the rise of institutions that are not legitimated with reference to parliamentary majority decisions. How can we understand this shift from the parliamentary paradigm? In order to answer this question, the lecture aims at a reconceptualisation of the relationships between rule, authority and legitimacy in an age of transforming statehoods. The aim of the lecture is to break up the conceptual connection between state and rule. First, a typology of public authority will be developed before asking the question “which type of authority requires which kind of legitimacy?” In concluding the lecture, some current trends will be sketched with the help of this conceptualisation.

Michael Zürn is Director of the research unit Transnational Conflicts and International Institutions (TKI) at the Social Science Research Center Berlin (WZB), Professor of Political Science at the Free University of Berlin, and a member of the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences and Humanities.

upcoming ecpr events 2012–2014

7th Summer School in Methods and Techniques

27 July – 11 August 2012 / Ljubljana, Slovenia

The ECPR Summer School in Methods and Techniques provides high quality up-to-date training in a broad range of specially selected methods across the whole spectrum of approaches employed within the social sciences. Scholarships and travel & accommodation grants are available for ECPR members.

Winter School in Methods and Techniques

17 – 22 February 2013/ Vienna

The WSMT, specifically, features both introductory courses and more advanced courses (parallel courses -- all courses are taught during the same time slot), in a one-week format, while the intermediate-level courses are held at the SSMT, in a two-week or a one-week course format.

ECPR Joint Sessions of Workshops

11 – 16 March 2013/ Johannes Gutenberg Universität Mainz

Workshops are designed to be a forum for substantive discussion on research in progress and collaboration among scholars and are gatherings of approximately 15 to 20 participants from several institutions, lasting about five days. The topics of discussion are precisely defined, and only those scholars currently working in the workshop's field are accepted to participate. A call for papers will go out in early July.

7th ECPR General Conference

5 – 7 September 2013 / Sciences Po Bordeaux, France

The academic programme takes the standard conference format of sections, which have within them between four and eight panels. These sections are organised around a common theme and major research.

Sections are not workshops. Rather, they provide the opportunity to present recent research to a larger audience and to expose it to the criticism, suggestions, and support of peers. The purpose of the conference is to further scientific discussion and research across all national scientific communities and across all areas of political science. In addition to sections and panels, there are roundtables, a plenary lecture and an interesting social programme. A call for panel proposals will be announced in August 2012.

ECPR Graduate Conference

2014 – date to be confirmed / Innsbruck, Austria

The academic programme takes the standard conference format of sections, which have within them between four and ten panels. These sections are organised around a common theme and major research questions. Sections are not workshops. Rather, they provide the opportunity to present recent research to a larger audience and to expose it to the criticism, suggestions, and support of peers. The purpose of the conference is to further scientific discussion and research across all national scientific communities and across all areas of political science. In addition to sections and panels, there are roundtables, a plenary lecture and an interesting social programme. This is an excellent opportunity for graduate students to come together from all over Europe to share their work and experience by presenting papers or by simply observing. A call for Panels and Papers will be announced in June 2013.

ECPR Joint Sessions of Workshops

21 – 26 April 2014/ Universidad de Salamanca

A call for workshops will go out in October 2012

The ECPR will also be holding panels at the annual meetings of its sister organisations

International Political Science Association / Madrid (8 – 12 July 2012)

American Political Science Association / New Orleans (30 August – 2 September 2012)

If you are a political scientist or practitioner you will be interested in the World of Political Science Book Series which was designed to satisfy each of these needs.

Research Committee 33 of the International Political Science Association (IPSA), dedicated to the Study of the Discipline, prepared a comparative, analytical model of the development of sub-fields of political science. It was then offered to the IPSA research committees to guide them in preparing up-to-date overviews of their field.

- A state-of-the-art survey of current activities;
- A study of conditions in methodology, concepts, training and communication of research;
- A synthetic overview analysis and explanation of developments and trends;
- A critical perspective focusing on present strengths and weaknesses with suggestions for the future.

Die Entsendung der Bundeswehr ins Ausland
Mit einem Vorwort von Volker Rühle
Engl. Broschur; zahlr. Abb.; XXI, 243 S. 2011

Warum entsenden wir Soldaten in die Welt? Ist das in unserem Interesse? Ist es rechtlich und moralisch zu rechtfertigen? Wie kommt ein Mandat zustande? Wie sehen zivile und militärische Einsätze in der Praxis aus? Diese Fragen bleiben für viele Bürger auch knapp 20 Jahre nach den ersten Einsätzen deutscher Soldaten vielfach unbeantwortet. Die politischen Prozesse der Mandatierung, die Gedanken und Argumente der Politiker und die Rolle von Parlament, Regierung und Bündnissen sind bis heute weitgehend unbekannt und vor allem unverstanden. Die in diesem Buch versammelten Praktiker aus Politik, Militär, Kirche, Wissenschaft, Journalismus und Verwaltung eint der Wille, dieses Informationsdefizit zu beheben und ihr eigenes Handeln transparent und allgemein verständlicher zu machen.

Ausgehend von der Frage, in welcher Welt wir leben und welche Werte und Interessen Deutschland zu wahren hat, berichten die Autoren über die Gedanken- und Entscheidungsgänge, die letztlich zu Beschlüssen von Nato und EU, Bundesregierung und Bundestag und schließlich zur Entsendung der Bundeswehr führen.

„So breit wie möglich, so tief wie notwendig – eine gründliche Gesamtschau aus vielen relevanten Blickwinkeln zu dem komplexen und stets aktuellen Thema der Beteiligung der Bundeswehr an Auslandseinsätzen.“
